R. J. Noonan Receives Plaque

First Week Winner

Barbara Ann Horecka Wins Santa Contest

Santa Claus letters began to arrive at the North Pole this week and the Jolly Old Gent forwarded a number of them on to the Anvil Herald. "That's a fine bunch of youngsters you have down there in Medina County, and they do write such nice letters," Santa wrote. "I looked the whole lot over carefully, and it seems to me that little Barbara Ann Horecka wrote the prize-winning letter this week. It was so nice of her to be concerned over her little sister."

So what is good enough for Santa is certainly good enough for the Anvil Herald. If Barbara will drop by the Anvil Herald office the first time she is in Hondo, she will find a little prize waiting for her.

And to you other kids, who did not get letters mailed so they would reach us by Tuesday evening, get busy! You may be winner next week.

There will be one more prize for the best Santa letter in the issue of Dec. 13 and another for the issue of Dec. 20. Just remember, this is a do-it-yourself contest. We will print letters of preschoolers, but just those boys and girls who write them in their own printing or handwriting are eligible to win prizes. Children up through the third grade are eligible.

The letters of Barbara Ann and the other children judged this week appear on page 11.

Shoots Once: Turkey Twice

A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, or so the old saying goes, but Bob Swatzell proved last Saturday that one shot can kill two in the bush.

Hunting on the Jim Thigpen place southeast of D'Hanis, Bob saw a gobbler, shot, then discovered he had shot a 13 pounder and also a 16 pounder.

The limit in Medina County is one gobbler, so in such cases extras are turned over to the game warden for distribution.

V. H. Crow Joins National Institute

V. H. Crow, owner of Crow's Cleaners, 1116 18th Street, Hondo, Texas, this week became a member of the National Institute of Drycleaning, Silver Spring, Maryland.

The National Institute of Drycleaning is a trade association representing more than 8500 drycleaning plants throughout the United States and in 42 foreign countries. Its educational and research facilities are at its two million dollar headquarters in Silver Spring, Maryland, a suburb of Washington, D. C.

OWL BAND MARCHING IN UVALDE FRIDAY

The Hondo High Owl band is competing in Region VI, Interscholastic league's marching contest in Uvalde Friday.

There will be competition for twirlers, ensembles and the entire marching bands in the Honey Bowl, Stadium in Uvalde.

Crowd Of 200 Attend Tuesday PTA Meet

Approximately 200 school patrons turned out last Tuesday night, Nov. 26, for the second Hondo Elementary Parent-Teacher Association meeting of the year. It was held in the high school auditorium in order that the Hondo High band could play some selections.

Under the baton of E. Joe Lee, the band presented an enjoyable musical program. Former director Bob Lewis, now of San Antonio, arrived for the program and directed the band in one selection.

Featured in an amusing pantomime was Julian Carr.

The meeting was Father's Night and E. A. Bendele was the oldest father having a child in the elementary grades. Mr. Mc-Clelland was the youngest father and Carlos Garcia was the father having the most children in the elementary grades. Each was given a gift.

During the business session, President Charles Hackebel brought up the subject of what to do with carnival funds, and the membership voted to have the executive committee meet with school officials to determine how funds should be spent.

Mrs. Glen Gooding, president of the high school PTA, gave a report of the annual state convention which she attended in Galveston.

Class 5A and Class 8B tied for room count, each having 16 parents present, and each will be given money for books.

Wilfred Schulte Injured In Two Truck Collision

Wilfred Schulte was still in Medina Hospital the first of the week, suffering from a bad shoulder injury. The injury was the result of a truck wreck last week about two miles from Devine on the Hondo-Devine road.

Schulte, truck driver for Jax Beer Company of Hondo, was struck from behind by a semi-trailer truck belonging to Big State Distributing Co. of Bowie, forcing Schulte into a ditch where his vehicle turned over.

It is thought that Schulte went through the windshield. The other truck driver was Perry Otto Pfahl.

O. A. Fly To Guide Hondo CofC In 1958

County Attorney R. J. Noonan dealt with the importance of a chamber of commerce to a town or city. He stated that no town could grow today without an active chamber of commerce.

A son-in-law of Judge Noonan, Guerra is now director of development for St. Mary's University of San Antonio and a director of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce. He was introduced by R. W. DePuy.

Long Christmas Vacation For Hondo School Students

Hondo Independent School District will have one of the longest Christmas vacations on record this year, according to Superintendent J. G. Barry. The Christmas vacation will begin at the close of school on Friday, Dec. 20 and classes will not start again until the morning of Monday, Jan. 6, 1958.

Barry stated that ordinarily school begins right after New Year's day, but since that would leave only two days of that week, he felt that not enough would be accomplished to justify operating for the two days.

The newly organized Hondo High Stage Band played four selections, under the direction of E. Joe Lee, Band Director. Featured soloists were Kenneth Nienhoffer on the cornet and Richard Corder playing saxophone.

MORE RABID FOXES —

Second Rancher Bitten

A second Medina Countian was attacked and bitten by a fox recently. The latest victim, rancher Ash Gilliam, heard a commotion in his back yard which sounded as though a dog belonging to his son Odie was chasing or being chased by a varmint.

At about 1:00 a.m., he put on his robe and slippers, picked up his gun and went out into the back yard, but did not turn on the light for fear of chasing off the intruder. Suddenly he felt a scratch on the top of his foot. He then kicked at the animal, turned on the light and saw the fox running off with his shoe.

After running about 50 yards, the fox turned and ran back at him. Gilliam discovered he had failed to load his gun, so he ran back into the yard, closed the gate, loaded his gun and shot the animal.

Gilliam called the doctor, who advised him to proceed at once with taking anti-rabies shots, that undoubtedly the fox was mad. The head of the animal was not mailed into Austin for a rabies test.

The dog disappeared, but later returned with no scratches. However, he is being given anti-rabies shots too.

One week before, farmer Charles Oefinger was bitten by a fox, which proved to be rabid. He was also required to take the series of shots — one a day for 14 days.

Gilliam said that many people had reported seeing strange-acting foxes recently. Alfred Winkler approached one that seemed sick and made no effort to run when shot. Willie Leinweber also reported seeing one that just stood by the roadside and made no effort to move when he passed by in the Quihua area. At least five have been killed in the Joe Short area — short himself killing two.

DECORATING CONTEST WILL BE DIFFERENT

Hondo's Christmas decorating contest will be a little different this year. There will be three divisions, and first, second and third place ribbons will be given to the winners in all three categories.

Most attractive outdoor displays will be judged, best picture window scenes, and the best decorated business houses.

Out of town judges will look over the displays near Christmas at a time to be announced.

Castroville Sponsors

Holiday Lighting Contest

The Castroville Garden Club and the City of Castroville are jointly sponsoring a Christmas lighting contest.

In order that no one will be missed in the judging, those decorating are asked to register at the Castroville City Office. Judging will be shortly before Christmas.

But Santa Claus is coming soon, and we'll just bet Ivena isn't left out of the doll picture completely. Mrs. Flatt had this exhibit at the Medina County Home Demonstration Club showing in Hondo recently.

There was turkey on the Thanksgiving table of many lucky Texans this year!

Turkey season opened Nov. 16, along with the white tail deer season, in many areas of the state.

Most of the birds were killed in the Edwards Plateau, better known as the Hill country of Texas. But other spots of the state also provided a few gobblers.

With the beginning of the deer and turkey season, only one more season is awaited by the hunters . . . quail season. It will be legal to hunt quail in most of the counties of Texas after December ends.

As new seasons come on, others pass out. It no longer is legal to kill doves in either the North or South zone.

It will be legal to kill mule deer west of the Pecos between Dec. 20-27, inclusive.

The white tail season will end Dec. 31, as will the goose season. Then it will be legal to kill only ducks and quail until Jan. 16.

After that the shotguns can be wiped clean and put away until next Sept. 1, unless you like to shoot crows.

Incidentally shooting crows at the end of the season is a good way to get rid of old shells and at the same time do your bit in killing off those black rascals.

Many town will have crow shoots. If you have a few crows around, get busy and organize an eradication campaign. It will pay off.

Boat Care

Have you checked your boat lately? Most of us have been so busy with our hunting in recent weeks, that we've neglected our boats.

A visit to any boat dock area will reveal many boats with six inches of water in the bottoms. The recent rains have almost filled others.

If boats are to last a long time and give good service, they need care. Mark it on your calendar to dedicate the next pretty weekend, or at least a portion of it, to checking your boat. Perhaps it might need to be hauled out of the water for a good scrub job.

Christmas Candies

Soon it will be time to start making Christmas candies. Do you have recipes of these easy-to-do favorites: — date loaf, atole, pralines, million dollar fudge, holiday fruit delight, caramel crunch and pecan roll? These and other holiday recipes are given in Extension Bulletin, Christmas Time at Home. You may have for the asking.

Decorating Fruit Cakes

Wait until the cake has almost finished cooking, so nuts and fruit may not discolor. Fruit may be added after the steaming period if the cake is steamed or when the glaze is put on an oven-baked cake. If the surface of the cake is dry, dip the decorations in egg white or corn syrup to make them stick.

Chocolate Pecan Cake

1/2 cup shortening
2 cups brown sugar
2 large eggs
3 tablespoons cocoa
2-3 cup water
2 1/4 cups cake flour or
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 1/2 cup sour cream
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2 1/2 cup chopped pecans

Cream shortening and sugar until fluffy. Add vanilla. Add one egg at a time and beat well after each addition. Mix the cocoa and water and add to mixture. Sift dry ingredients together and add alternately with sour cream. Stir in the pecans. Pour into pans which have been greased and floured. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes; square oblong, 30 to 40 minutes. Cool. Finish with Prize Fudge Frosting.

HINT: When fudge-type frosting becomes too thick to spread, add a little cream as needed. When too thin, add sifted confectioners' sugar.

"...AND GIVE MY DAD A BOOK ON FIRE PREVENTION SO OUR HOUSE WON'T BURN DOWN AGAIN THIS YEAR."

Avoid Fire: Be Careful Decorating Christmas Tree

In fire stations there's an air of uneasy tension.

Fires at Christmas time are particularly tragic at this the happiest holiday of the year. On this most sentimental day thousands of homes and apartments are carelessly and unwittingly converted into dangerous fire traps — regardless of warnings by fire department officials and safety authorities.

Two years ago fires on Christmas eve killed 23 persons, most of them children, and in the four-day week-end last year took the lives of 54.

This year, for instance, the nation's fire losses may well be over a billion dollars, the death toll close to 10,800, according to the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

You can save your life and prevent fires by observing the following suggestions offered at this time by the National Board:

*The Christmas tree is a potential fire hazard and caution should be taken in its selection, placement in the home, and maintenance.

*Play safe by choosing a small one. There will be 30 million on the market.

*Keep the tree outdoors until ready to set it up. While it's outdoors, occasionally throw water over it. This will keep it moist, fresh.

*When you bring the tree inside, cut the butt slantwise to open the pores, then stand it in water or moist earth.

*Be cautious of chemicals or other substances sold for "fireproofing" trees. In some cases this process is ineffective.

*In placing the tree, it's best to avoid "hot spots" such as those near the fireplace, stove, television set, radiator, or electric bulbs.

*Never use untreated paper ornaments or untreated cotton batting or gauze for decoration. Cotton and gauze can be made flame-resistant by dipping in a gallon of water mixed with nine ounces of borax and four ounces of boric acid.

*Use only electric lights, never candles. Be sure, too, that wires are in good condition and bear the UL mark denoting Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., which shows they have been tested for safety. Frayed electric cords are a fire hazard.

*The switch for turning on the tree lights should be placed some distance from the tree. Never use an outlet or plug under the tree or run electric trains around the base.

*If decorations are used about the house, do not permit them around or near chairs or other places where people may smoke. It is preferable to have them near the ceiling, well above the head of anyone standing up.

*Keep plenty of ash trays handy during the holiday season, as always.

*If lights are desired in windows, never use candles. Keep curtains and other flammable material pulled back at least six inches from any electric light.

*Use non-flammable decorations of glass or metal, and "fireproof" snow in decorating your tree for Christmas.

*After you have opened your Christmas presents, remove all the gift wrappings and packing materials from your living room and dispose of them.

fletcher davis

"I note these facts, with reference to Mr. Staacke's extensive business in early times with pleasure, and it is necessary for me to do so because I will be compelled to notice him frequently in connection with my affairs. Mr. Staacke is still alive, but he retired from business about fifteen years ago, and his establishment has been successfully conducted by his sons in San Antonio under the firm name of Staacke Bros.

"We paid Mr. Staacke nine hundred dollars for the first coach we bought from him in 1867, when we started our line, and we purchased later the coach which has been described, for which we paid $1250, without the horses. The set of harness that was made for it was intended for six horses, to weigh twelve hundred pounds, but it was useless to us because our animals were much smaller.

"Our stage line extended from San Antonio along my old mail route to Eagle Pass, on the east bank of the Rio Grande. The distance to that point was one hundred and sixty-two miles, and the road was good in dry weather. I crossed the river there to Piedras Negras, now known as Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, situated on the high banks of the west side, in the State of Coahuila, Mexico. From there it continued southward three hundred and sixty-two miles to Monterey.

"We had, at first, very few stations and lost entirely too much time on account of wet weather that often prolonged the trip to seven or eight days because of insufficient teams. To remedy the defect, suitable stations were selected, where the animals could be protected in the wild country through which it was necessary for us to pass, and we stocked the route with seventy-two good mules. We were satisfied, before these changes were made, that the line would pay if run to advantage, and afterwards an experimental drive was made over the route in five days.

"The road between Santa Monica and Paso de la Laza was an unoccupied desert except by the state-stand on the banks of the Rio Sabinas, which was abandoned later, on account of the Indians, and thereafter we were obliged to make a ninety-mile drive between Santa Monica and Lampasas with one team and without water, after crossing the Rio Sabinas.

"The town of Lampasas had about three thousand inhabitants who were sustained by some irrigated land, and it was also a great sheep, goat and cattle country. The people of the town manufactured by hand good Mexican blankets, and they seemed to be industrious, as they were always at work. Northeast of the town is the Mesa de las Cartuñas, that was then known as the Mesa de Vedula.

"From Lampasas to Villadama, by the way of Sierra Colorado Pass and Galondrinas, is fifty miles. The town had about four thousand inhabitants in 1868, and the silver, copper, and lead mines in that vicinity gave constant employment to the people. The leading men in the place at that time were Marino and Ma-chor Sanchez, who were mostly engaged in the mining business.

"From Villadama to Palo Blanco it is thirty-two miles and from there to Morales the distance is eighteen miles. This stretch of fifty miles was considered the most dangerous for travelers on the frontier of Mexico. From Villadama the road passed through a valley near the base of the Sierra Madre and another range of mountains enclosed it on the east side. The valley was from ten to fifteen miles in width, and thirty miles of the distance was through a palm-tree forest with a thick undergrowth of brush that in some places grew so close to the road it was impossible for two vehicles to pass each other.

"The heights of the Sierra Madre were constantly infested by Indians, and the road that lay below them could be observed for miles. When travelers were seen approaching from either direction, they would descend to some suitable place in the valley and waylay them in ambush. The most dangerous place was about six miles from the Palo Blanco Ranch, where the road was confined to a narrow pass, between hills that rose from twenty to thirty feet high for a distance of about one hundred and fifty yards. Here and at other places they would make a sudden attack, with the result that the travelers were murdered generally before they could offer the slightest resistance. I was told by the people at the ranch that more than seventy-five people had been killed in the pass in about twenty years, and I had personal knowledge of a family with their children, and several other persons that were killed there at different times. After perpetrating their murderous work, the Indians would flee to the mountains, where they were safe from pursuit, and it is doubtful if large bodies of soldiers could have dislodged them from their place of refuge.

"One of our stations, where we changed horses, was Palo Blanco Ranch until it was removed elsewhere. On one of my trips westward, in 1867, when I reached that point the people informed me that the Indians had come out of the mountains and were depredating in the country along my route. The begged me to stay with them as they thought it probable that the Indians would attack the ranch; but as I was not looking for Indians, and did not wish to have trouble with them, I only delayed long enough to change my team.

"When I returned I learned that after my departure, about five o'clock in the evening, the Indians appeared and took three children into captivity, after killing two men and one woman who were traveling the road I had passed over, on their way to the ranch for protection, but those at the ranch were not molested. My good friend, Jose Sanchez, was in charge of it at the time, and I believe that he is still alive.

"The custom of showing respect for the last resting place of the dead prevails in Mexico, where it has been observed for ages. Wherever a murdered person has been interred near the roadside, a cross is erected and many travelers stop there to pray, but before leaving they always deposit some token, even if it is a stone, at the foot of the cross, though many cast a stone on the accumulated pile as they pass. In the valley referred to, at one of the places I passed, I counted as many as twenty crosses, some of them showing markings of age, but many, and sometimes ten near together, were secured to palm trees and others to bushes. An appropriate name for it would be the Valley of Death, and I always felt relieved after passing through it. On such occasions I usually adopted every precaution to guard against surprises, and when passing the most dangerous places I and my armed passengers rode on top of the coach.

JOE SCHOTT PROMOTED TO SERGEANT RANK

FORT LEE, VE. — The editor of The Lee Traveller, SP-3 Joe L. Schott, a Texas native son and former news editor of The Hondo Anvil Herald, has been promoted to the rank of specialist second class (sergeant).

The promotion, it was noted, is an unusual one, since Schott was inducted into the service as a private just 22 months ago.

Scott, son of Mr. J. F. Schott of Castroville, came to Fort Lee in March, 1956, and was enrolled in a supply course at the Quartermaster School. There he compiled one of the highest scholastic averages ever attained and was named honor graduate of his class.

Before entering the service in January, 1956, Schott held newspaper positions with the Anvil Herald, the San Antonio Light, and the University of Texas' Daily Texan. For three sessions of the Texas Legislature he served with Representative Dolph Briscoe Jr. as a legislative assistant. He has also worked as the Southside Virginia news representative for The Richmond News Leader.

An honor graduate of the University of Texas, Schott holds a bachelor of Journalism degree. He attended St. Louis Catholic School in Castroville and was graduated with honors from Central Catholic High School in San Antonio.

Schott, married to the former Miss Barbara Jo Woerner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Woerner of Castroville, will be released from active duty on January 10. He said he will return to the Lone Star State, where he will continue his work in the newspaper field.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

RE: Remember When

November 29th, Issue

Hondo Anvil Herald

Hondo, Texas

30 YEARS AGO — CASTROVILL Item. Surely the incident here mentioned must have been 60 years ago. I was born and reared in Medina County and cast my first vote for a county sheriff 50 years ago and have voted for a candidate for Sheriff of Medina County in every general election since, save for twenty years I was in exile in Bandera and Frio Counties. I never voted for or against Nigelli. I recall the persistent but futile efforts of Joe Bader to unseat Sheriff Joe

Ney, but that was long before I reached the voting age. Thirty years ago I had returned to Medina County, was teaching school and my voting privileges had been restored. Would check on date of the item.

This "Flop" for whom the usher wanted Sheriff Nigelli's seat — I am sure some of the Old Timers will remember the type. They wore flashy clothes, sported a cane, flashed gold teeth, and parted their hair in the middle to balance their brains. We ordinary folks called them fops, dandies, more commonly dudus.

Incidentally this King Fisher whom Sheriff Nigelli delivered to the Bexar County Sheriff was quite a notorious character. Some of the oldsters can tell you his story.

Joy L. Tilley

Devine, Texas

EDITOR'S NOTE: We looked it up, the story really was published in the Nov. 26, 1927 issue of the Anvil Herald which rightly places it in the 30 years ago column. As to the "Flop", that was an error. The word should have been flop.

Retiring From Air Force

Two veteran Air Force officers met with Major General Jarred V. Crabb, Commander, Central Air Defense Force, Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base, Missouri in a ceremony held that announced their retirement from the Air Force.

The ceremony marked an end to the 29 and 22 year careers of Lt. Colonel Miguel Brown, assistant deputy chief of staff, communications and electronics, and Major James W. Fohn, ground communications officer, respectively.

Colonel Brown, of 4438 North Woodburn Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, has served in the Armed Forces since 1928.

Major Fohn, of Hondo, has served in the U. S. military since 1937. The 43-year-old field grade officer provides another Air Force success story of an enlisted man reaching the commissioned status. All his major assignments have been in the radar and electronics fields.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

Coming close to 1958, I think next year will be a very good one for the bee man — prospects look very favorable for a bumper honey crop and an increase to make up for the loss we had. Hondo is a very fine place to raise bees. I think we need a few bee men in Medina Co. for beginners as well as experts.

Mrs. Frances Wurzbach and Mrs. A. N. Mangold of Rt. 4, SA spent Tuesday afternoon with M&M Albert Bippert in Natalia.

Mrs. Bauman of Harper was the guest of her son, Father Baum, of our Lady of Grace Parish here for a few days.

M&M Fr. Adam of Poth and Lionel Leossberg of Pearsall, were here for the funeral of Mrs. Sebastian Hass Tuesday. They also visited briefly with M&M Oscar Kaufman.

Mrs. Ida Jungman spent the Thanksgiving holidays with M&M Wm. J. Engelbrechts and sons in SA.

M&M M. A. Mechler of SA spent Thanksgiving day with the Bru Millers in Hondo.

M&M Bob Johnson and family spent the weekend in Pearsall with his parents and family.

We send off lots of money for honey to supply the stores when some man could raise all of it here. Would be glad to help some beginner get a start in the business. I am a retired bee man.

Sincerely,
Wm. Huegele

Cotton Referendum Votes

Will Decide Questions

How farmers vote in the cotton marketing quota referendum to be held throughout the Nation's cotton-growing area on December 10 will determine whether quota penalties will apply and also the level of price support for 1958-crop cotton. The referendum therefore is of vital concern to every cotton grower, says George A. Koch, Chairman of the Medina County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

"I think his brakes are grabbing."

Seco Philosopher Says If Nation Needs More Basic Researchers, He's Available

Editor's note: The Seco Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm is misinterpreting the news again, his letter this week indicates:

Dear editor:

I found in a copy of a newspaper which a north wind blew in here the other afternoon, when you can get newspapers from any direction you don't care which way the wind is blowing, an article that said Washington officials are concerned about the number of scientists the schools are turning out. They say it's not enough.

That is, we're turning out a lot of scientists, all right, but they're being trained for such things as designing lower cars, cars that get lower from the top down but still stay far enough off the ground to keep from burning the seat of your pants, or working out new color blends for refrigerators, making radios you can drop without breaking, watches that never have to be wound, cigarettes with twice as many filters as any other brand, etc.

What we need now, Washington has decided, is more scientists for basic research. More egghead scientists, men who work on theories without any consideration for whether the idea will be worth anything commercially or not.

Well, now, I'll tell you. I might qualify on this thing. That is, I'm no scientist, but I've spent a lifetime working on basic research, if a basic researcher is somebody who works at a job regardless of whether it'll pay off or not.

Farming the way I do it comes as close to being basic research as anything I can think of. When a farmer starts a year's work, he has no more idea whether it's going to turn than a scientist working on abstract mathematical theories. I know farmers who have plowed ahead for years with practically no attention to whether or not their venture would show a profit.

But there must be some mistake. If Washington thinks there's a shortage of us basic researchers, it ought to take another count of the farmers in this country. Instead of counting how much we produce, it ought to find out how much we made. This country is filled with basic researchers, but our trouble is we've been researching in the wrong field.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.
